

Where do trees get their building materials

Trees use carbon dioxide and water, and some other nutrients, as building material.
Trees use energy from sunlight as energy to assemble the building materials.